SALLING HANSON CO. MILLS END WORK

LAST LOG PASSES SAWS THURS. DAY

Ends Nearly 50 Years' Making

The big lumber mill of Salling Hanson Company ended nearly fifty busy years of service last Thursday when the last log passed up the skids and through the saws. When the last operation was completed the mill whistle sounded its last blast, the machinery stopped running, and the crew, many of whom had served long years for the company, ceased their labors, many to seek employment elsewhere. A few of these will continue in the work of finishing up the yard work and shipment of the many huge piles of lumber piled there, as sales are made.

Charles Tromble, foreman of the old mill and the first sawyer to be employed by Rasmus Hanson, North-eastern Michigan's lumber king, rounded out 40 years of service. He is said by Mr. Hanson to be the best pine sawyer in Michigan.

Mr. Tromble, Peter Rasmussen, 81 years old, who has cut pine for Hanson for 55 years, and other veterans will be pensioned—many against their will. The younger men will be absorbed into other Hanson enterprises. Henceforth the future of Grayling is bound up in the hardwood industry. Famous for decades as the home of the cork pine, the softest-textured of the pine family, for which the soil of Crawford county is peculiarly adapted, Grayling will still have the Kerry & Hanson Lumber Co., manufacturers of maple flooring, the Grayling Box Company, and the Grayling Dowel & Tie Plant Company, timber for which concerns is now shipped in by railroad from other sections.

Grayling enjoyed the peak of its prosperity in 1878. Not until later years did the vast forests of cork pine begin to dwindle and lumber kings turn their attention to Norway pine, swamp-pine and hemlock.

In 50 years of lumbering operations the Hanson interests have cut several billion feet of timber. When lumbering was at its height three sawmills were working day and night.

In 1914 the first mill shut down. Its site is now the Grayling Golf Club. Not long afterward the T-Town mill, a mile north of Grayling, was abandoned. A few years later the old mill and the last evidences of T-Town. Last year Rasmus Hanson gave the land, adjoining T-Town to the Michigan National Guard for a landing field for the air service.

The life of Rasmus Hanson is an epic of accomplishments. Born in Denmark, he came to Manistee when he was 16 and got a job as a lumberjack. Just two years later he was engaged with E. N. Salling and Nelson Michelson, the first Salling-Hanson Company. The three began as loggers on the Manistee river, selling the cut timber by the 1,000 feet.

They cut pine for 20 miles along the Manistee, floated the logs to the town, where they were put through the sawmills and shipped in schooners to Chicago. The first cargo of white pine sold for $7.00 per 1,000 feet.

Float Logs to Town
The lumber market in Chicago varied according to the number of vessels in the harbor. The finished product was distributed in adjoining states. Much of it built up Indiana and Illinois.

With the proceeds of their Chicago sales, Hanson, Salling and Michelson invested in standing timber which they bought from the federal government at $1.25 an acre.

In 1878 they came to Grayling in search of a site for a sawmill on the river front where they could float their logs.

James Goodell, a Grayling lumber man, wanted to dispose of his holdings and go to Oregon. "I want to sell out before all the pine is cut," he told townpeople. That was in 1878. He sold his interests to Hanson, Salling & Michelson and drove a team of horses to Oregon and settled there. They took over his sawmill. The first cut was 3,000 feet.

Michelson had a three-sevenths interest in the company, and Hanson and Salling each owned seven-sevenths. Doctors told Salling that he was suffering from cancer and gave him two years to live. He urged Rasmus Hanson to incorporate the company and gave him the controlling interest.

During all these many years Mr. Hanson has been the guiding spirit of the firm of Salling Hanson Company, and by his keen business ability and excellent judgment, built up a great fortune for himself and his associates. With exceptions of times when he was out of the city and at times abroad which was when he visited his old home in Denmark and friends in other countries, he was generally to be found in the office, or actively engaged in looking over the operations at his several manufacturing mills and plants. Besides the lumber mills his interests were large in the Kerry & Hanson Lumber Co., the Grayling Box Company, and in fact just about every practical industry in the community. Although he is enjoying the fine old age of 81 years, he still makes visits almost daily to his office, and drives his own electric car.

One of his greatest achievements, besides the employment of much labor, is the securing of the Michigan National Guard camp at what was formerly Portage Lake, but now known as Lake Margrethe. This wonderful camp, which is generally considered to be the finest military camp in America, has brought a lot of prosperity to his home city and especially to the business circles here. Mr. Hanson is fond of the big camp and finds a lot of enjoyment in visiting it, especially when the Guards are in camp. He is always a welcome visitor at camp and is known to almost every officer and man.

The people of Grayling are sorry to lose the old mill and the prosperity that comes from it. The silencing of the mill whistle seems like losing an old friend. It has called the men to work for nearly a half century and has been the cheer leader among the industries of the community. We are grateful for the many blessings it has brought to our citizens and to the men who have made it possible. Mr. Hanson now is hopeful that the Grayling Development Company, in which he is a principal stockholder, will strike oil and then once again Grayling is destined to be one of the thriving communities of the north, an honor she has held ever since its inception.

CARD OF THANKS
To the many friends whose kindnesses we have no other means of acknowledging, we hereby tender our sincere thanks and the assurance that their sympathy does help.

LOOKS GOOD FOR NEW INDUSTRY

DURO-STONE PRODUCTS MAKE BIG HIT

A meeting of the stockholders of the Duro-Stone Company was held at the Board of Trade club rooms Friday night and was very well attended. James W. Sorenson, chairman of the business committee, gave a resume of the progress of the company and an outlining of some of the things it hoped to accomplish. John Cowell, manager of the plant that is located in the former M. & N. E. depot, had on display a large number of specimens of some of the work that has been turned out.

While the efforts of the management up to this time has been principally in the development of the processes, still a lot of valuable progress has been made and it looks very favorable for a successful future business career.

Wherever the work of the company has been displayed it has won immediate attention and favor and created a lot of enthusiasm. The plans are now for the pushing of the work along the lines of store fronts, floor and sidewalk tiling. The practicability of this line of their products warrants the furthering of intensive effort.

The market for their product seems to be awaiting all that may be turned out. Rigid tests of Duro-Stone floor tile have been made and are still being carried out. Surfaces of this ware are to be placed in some of our business places for further proving its stability and usefulness.

GRAYLING LOSES TO STANDISH

Grayling high school football team lost their first game at Standish Friday of last week, the score being 33 to 7. It was a hard fought game. Grayling made 7 points in the first half and held their opponents blank to within twenty seconds of that period when they scored their first touchdown.

While the Standish players were a much heavier team than Grayling, Coach Chishman says they hold no ill-will and intend to reverse the victory when Standish comes to Grayling. The latter played a splendid game throughout while Grayling played a ragged game, so it is claimed, but the latter's coach claims that all weak spots are going to be ironed out before the next game which will be with Gladwin Friday afternoon on the home lot.

GETTING SET FOR WINTER PLAY

ELECT COMMITTEES FOR WINTER SPORTS

There was a good attendance at the meeting called for last Monday evening in the interest of winter sports. It was held at the Board of Trade club rooms, M. Hanson acting as chairman.

The chairman gave a resume of the things that had already been done and suggested plans for the coming season, and an organization was formed that promises to carry them out successfully. This will be known as the Winter Sports Association.

Frank Serven, who so ably aided in the construction work last winter, was elected chairman of the construction committee, with George Schaubel acting with him, and they are to select the remainder of their committee.

For the finance committee Harold McNeven was elected chairman and Frank Tatu and Herbert Gothro, assistants. Thos. Cassidy was elected chairman of the business committee. Others of that committee are, Marius Hanson, W. W. Lewis, A. J. Joseph, and Carl Peterson. John Bruun was elected secretary and Rev. J. W. Greenwood, treasurer.

Committee Attend Petoskey Meeting
A meeting was held in Petoskey Tuesday evening which was attended by representatives of nearly all the cities of the Northland, who reported on what was being done in their home communities. Almost every county in the north is to have winter sports and the idea is growing more popular every year.

Grayling has been enjoying these winter recreations for several years and have the advantage over most places by past experiences. Petoskey and Charlevoix, too, have been getting into the game and promise to provide attractions that it is hoped will attract the many summer residents back for the winter seasons.

Mr. Hoffmaster, chairman of state parks, promises financial assistance in the line of winter sports in connection with their parks wherever it is justified, probably on a small scale to begin with. Grayling seems to be one of the favored ones at the present time already an established success here, the location being on the military reservation which is one of the state parks.

Mr. Stace, chairman of the public utility department of Public Utilities at Ann Arbor, was the principal speaker of the evening and stated that Grayling had the right idea in making its winter sports such as may be participated in and enjoyed by the people generally. "Make your place attractive for both young and old, and not only a place where professionals do the entertaining and the visitors are only spectators." He praised the Grayling plans, saying that he had the right idea.

Those from Grayling attending the meeting were M. Hanson, Thos. Cassidy, E. E. Smith, Frank Tatu, G. J. McNamara, W. W. Lewis and O. P. Schumann.

A second meeting of the Association will be held this evening at the Board of Trade rooms.

DO YOU KNOW

That the East Michigan Tourist Association in 1927 ordered 1,000,000 East Michigan blotters for distributing throughout the country? That these blotters are distributed without charge by members of the Association, who enclose them in their outgoing, out-of-state mail? That "Vacationland," the East Michigan Tourist Association magazine is on reference tables in public libraries in lower Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois?

DEDICATION OF NEW MOSQUE OF ELF KHURAFEH TEMPLE

At Saginaw, October 6th, 7th, and 8th

The formal dedication and opening of the million dollar Shrine Mosque will be a brilliant three-day affair in Saginaw Thursday evening, Friday and Saturday, October 6th, 7th and 8th. The innumerable details for this spectacular event and preparations for the reception and entertainment of the largest gathering of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine ever assembled in this section of Michigan are nearly completed.

After the banquet closing the reunion of the Bay City Consistory October 6th, a large number will proceed to Saginaw, arriving in time for the grand dedicatory Shrine concert, to which the public are invited. The Potentates of Saladin Temple, Grand Rapids; Moslem Temple, Detroit; Ahmed Temple, Marquette; Medinah Temple, Chicago; Zenobia Temple, Toledo; and Macha Temple, London, Ontario, accompanied by their Divans, have signified their desire and intention of honoring Elf Khurafeh Temple on this auspicious occasion with their presence.

The Club House is completely furnished in its various departments with decorations, equipment and furnishings intended to lend an air of home and comfort rather than gaudy display and is replete with an atmosphere of hospitality and in complete readiness for the reception of members and guests.

A Thought for the Week

The preacher's son has through the years been very much maligned. He was supposed to be the bad boy of the crowd. If someone got into mischief, immediately a critic said, "It's the preacher's son, and sometimes, the guess was right."

However, a recent survey of the "Who's Who" column in American life, reveals this astounding fact: One of the "Who's Who" came from the farm, in the ratio of 1 to 685 farmers in the country. From the homes of engineers, came 1 from 161 such homes. Physicians gave us 1 for every 104 doctors' homes. Business men, 1 from 80 homes. And then here is the thing that strikes us with wonder, and gives denial to the many hard things the world has said about preachers' boys—1 out of 20 parsonage homes, have found their way into the column of the great in American life.

If the ministry of the United States did nothing else than give to the country that sturdy group of American boys who lead by a very large percentage in the column of "Who's Who," they have justified their existence. We wonder if the home life of the preacher, where family worship is not out of date, where the Church takes first place on the Sunday, where the Bible is read and revered, has anything to do with such a record. We believe it has. With all of their faults, hats off to the preachers' boys, who have made such a record.

HOSPITALITY IS URGED BY LAPEER SECRETARY

(By E. M. T. Service)

Percy D. Worgess, secretary of the Lapeer Board of Commerce, gives the following timely hints to residents of Wolverine cities, towns and villages with respect to treatment of tourists and resorters:

"Be a host to strangers. Smile—the tourist is away from home. Be prompt—the tourist is a guest within our borders. Be fair—our guest is human—serve him according to the Golden Rule; next year he may be back. Be helpful—take time to give the wayfarer 'clear-cut' information. Be thoughtful—tell him of interesting little things close by that he might like to see. Be appreciative—let the tourist know that your state folks value his patronage. Be hospitable—invite him to come again. And say good-bye with a good warm handshake."

The Use of Flowers

"Wherefore, wherefore were they made,
All dyed with rainbow light,
All fashioned with supernal grace,
Upbringing day and night?"

To whisper hope—to comfort man,
When'er his faith is dim;
For whose careth for the flowers
Will care much more for him!"

—Mary Howitt.

This is exactly the time of year in which to order bulbs, shrubs and trees.

What a beautiful thing it would be if rural school teachers, encouraged by parents and school boards would, right now, order bulbs for fall planting and spring flowering—daffodils, tulips, crocus, hyacinths, narcissus! Planted in early October in a well-selected place in the school yard, allowing each child to plant a few, what an interest and delight next spring! It's practical, too. This practice, carried on at school, would lead to many more of our farm homes being made bright and beautiful with flowers.

School grounds are distressingly bare and ugly. Nothing there to lead children to want the neat, the beautiful, in their present homes, or the homes they will some day create.

This is not right. One of the finest functions of schools is to arouse within the embryonic citizen, the child who will soon be an adult, in some community, those desires, those propensities, that will make him a desirable citizen, a home-maker of high quality.

Three or four dollars spent by parents, teachers and school boards now for bulbs would result in the purest joy next spring, as all beheld bright blossoms springing from the soil. These bulbs would flower and delight before the brief spring term closes. These, of course, as all know, is not run in one year; as taken in and transplanted, they last several years.

If a pupil is sick, how fine to send a few bright blossoms from the school garden, by a committee of fellow pupils!

I have yet to see flowers, shrubs or trees, planted by children on school property, injured in any way by school children.

While director of the Grayling schools, and at the same time County Commissioner of Schools, I had much to do with a beautiful little school garden about 15 by 20 feet on the southern side of the school house. Several hundred children watched its progress, but I do not recall a single instance in which a child did any damage to it.

I had a part in planting the shrubs on the Grayling grounds, and do not recall that a single thing was ever injured by a child.

So, why not do a little "something for our empty and desolate rural school grounds?"

Yes, We Have No Bananas! Neither have we anything to sell nor are we in the pay of any nursery company.

Yet, this is just the time of year for someone to urge upon farmers the purchase of a few well-selected fruit trees, if not shrubs. Why not wait and let the traveling tree agent do the selling this winter, at $2.50 a tree? Because, that is too much. As one who has farmers' interests truly at heart, I hate to see them so "soaked." Besides, such high prices greatly reduce the number of trees that farmers will buy. We need more fruit trees planted—many more. All that I have found newly planted throughout the county cost farmers $2.50 each.

I can point farmers to several places where they can buy good standard trees—apples, pears, plums, cherries, of all the varieties for 75 cents each. You will send your money yourself to anyone of the several places that you select. I positively will not handle it.

However, I will gladly assist in selecting varieties. Write me your wishes to number of trees, and how much you can invest now, and I will fix you up a list of how many of this and how many of that variety, so you will have a well balanced home or family orchard.

Plant fruit trees in early October. Buy them right. Keep the cows out of the young orchard, and soon enjoy the fruits therefrom.

Maple Forest Boy Tells of Trip to State Fair

As for many years past, the management of the great State Fair furnishes a free trip to the fair at Detroit, to the boy who passes the highest examination in agriculture at the usual eighth grade examination, held in each county in May, on questions prepared in the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The questions are the same in each county, are printed, and the examination is held at the same time throughout the state. The written answers are looked over by the County Board of Examiners, as other examination papers are.

Mr. Archie Lozon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lozon, of Maple Forest township, and a pupil of Miss Eunice Schreiber of the "Woodburn school," was the fortunate winner for Crawford county, made the trip successfully, during which carfare, board, lodging, admission, sight seeing were all free.

Ernest gives us his impressions of the fair in the following account.

We might add that this young man has entered the Grayling high school, where he hopes to complete the course.

My State Fair Trip

As a reward for having the highest standing in a special agricultural examination which I wrote last spring, I received a free trip to the Michigan State Fair.

During the summer Mr. Cameron sent to me, my badge, railroad ticket and instructions.

I left Grayling Sunday, Sept. 4, on the midnight train. Mr. Cameron, in his letters, said we were to get acquainted with as many boys as possible. This I did, and knew quite a few by the time the train arrived in Detroit.

In Detroit I got off the train at the Michigan Central depot. There a man wearing a badge similar to ours met us and showed us the way to a special bus he had waiting. This we got into and went over to the Pere Marquette depot where there were more boys waiting.

Then we were driven out through Detroit and Highland Park to the fair grounds, arriving there at 10:30 a. m., Monday, Sept. 5th. Monday, some rested nearly all day, others played ball, as all the boys had not yet arrived.

Tuesday, we arose at 7:00 o'clock, then had our physical exercises, after which we washed and formed in line to march to the cafeteria for breakfast.

After breakfast we marched back to camp and formed into four squads with squad leaders to direct us. My squad leader being Mr. Palmer.

Then we started the program which they had prepared for us.

We went to the Coliseum, saw the judging of cattle which were mostly beef cattle; then, we went to the horse stables where we saw different kinds of breeds of horses.

After dinner we went to the grandstand and saw the horse races, trotting and pacing, also dog races and free acts, which were going on in front of the grand stand. Then we went back to camp for supper.

We played ball and had other amusements until time for bed which was 9:00 o'clock.

Wednesday, we were called same as Tuesday for exercises and breakfast.

In the morning we went to the dairy barns, poultry, sheep and pig sheds, also the electrical and art buildings.

Wednesday afternoon we were called to the lecture hall and given a talk by Governor Green and the Secretary of Agriculture. We also had other speakers at different times; then we made trips around all the different machinery after which we went to supper.

In the evening we went to see the fireworks part of which was the "Fall of Troy," which I enjoyed very much.

Thursday morning, we went around the grounds to the different shows and other amusements until noon.

After dinner there were two buses awaiting us, and we were driven around Detroit, our leader pointing out to us the different buildings, also the State plant, then we went to Belle Isle to the Zoo.

On our way back we stopped to visit the convict ship, and saw many interesting things there, relative to cruelty of convicts; then we went to camp for supper.

In the evening we went to the Coliseum building, saw a wild west show, also judging of horses, and there were some fine horses there.

We left there for camp and those who were to leave in the morning packed their suit cases.

I saw many interesting things, fine cattle, horses, sheep and poultry; different machinery and new toys.

Friday morning we started for home, bidding our leaders and other friends, good-bye. We left Detroit at 8:20 o'clock, and I arrived in Fredegie at 2:00 o'clock.

I certainly enjoyed my trip and hope to see many boys get the same trip that I have had. I wish to thank my teacher, school commissioner, and our county agent for the help given me, so I could take this enjoyable trip.

Yours with thanks,
Ernest Lozon.

Health News

(By County Nurse)

Public health is the foundation upon which rests the happiness of the people and the welfare of the nation.

The greatest thing in this wide world is a human life, and it is worth all it costs to serve it.

"The human being is but a progressive and pleasure seeking animal. It is not natural that we should make success, our being's, object and aim."

Success is something which must be worked for, and the greatest is he who starts far down the ladder of success and perseveres, acting with brain willing hands and persevering will attain the zenith of his own ambition. Without ambition there is no success in life. Without health there is no ambition.

A community that makes it possible for one person to start from the very bottom and go to the very top, may be considered as long as the health, brains and strength of character continue to break down these barriers and gain their utmost goals, we need not fear the future of the nation.

To cure, is a voice of the past. To prevent, the divine whisper of today.

Health Essentials for School Children—Teeth, Malnutrition

"When we stop to consider that Oliver Wendell Holmes was not only a great poet and essayist, but also a physician, surgeon and a professor of several branches of medicine in the Harvard medical school, we can read a deeper meaning from his poem, 'The Wonderful One-Hoss Shay' or 'The Panacea Masterpiece' that was built in such a logical way that it ran a hundred years to the day, whose every part was as large as the other, and went to pieces."

All at once and nothing first. Just as bubbles do when they burst.

It is symbolic of the perfect human being and of the physician's idea of death.

The mouth is the gateway to the body—keep it clean. A clean mouth denotes thorough mastication, proper nutrition, physical and mental development along with good insurance against disease germs, freedom from toothache and the resulting eye strain and nervous disorders.

Over twenty varieties of disease germs have been found in the mouth all at once, including diphtheria, pneumonia, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, etc. Tuberculosis may follow decayed teeth because of the inability to properly masticate, or the germs may enter at any time through the neck through decayed and abscessed teeth, causing tuberculosis glands.

Gum boils, caused by poisons from a dead nerve or pulp of a neglected tooth, produces indigestion, anemia, lowered vitality, and even death frequently results from continual swallowing of your food through pus factories.

As many as six abscesses are frequently found in one child's mouth all at once, due to the common neglect of the first teeth.

Children's diseases occur, as a rule, just at the greatest period of a child's life, while the first teeth are being replaced by the second. Child with an abscessed tooth is inviting these disease germs, and is also a menace to other children because of the disease germs they carry and are being thrown off by their breath, so guard the gateway of the body—the mouth—and so protect the child.

The first teeth should be preserved. This is necessary for the proper development of the face, and to make space for the larger second teeth, preventing irregularities.

The six-year molars, so many times are mistaken for the first set and should be guarded carefully. Teachers may insist upon a dental examination at least once a year for each of the pupils, and a clean mouth cared for with a tooth-brush, clear water, dental floss, proper mastication, and taught and guarded through the study of hygiene in the schools.

It is useless to impress upon a child's mind, of thoroughly chewing his food, if his teeth are defective.

Lack of cleanliness, lack of fresh air while sleeping, too fast eating, broken, decayed and irregular teeth, all cause poor mastication. Then the other digestive organs will have to do the neglected work of the mouth, and malnutrition develops.

Malnutrition is something which, in a great majority of cases, is preventable and curable.

The law requires that children must be in school so many months each year up to a certain grade and age.

And the law requires health established as well as book learning, complete. We include health in the term, education. It is the only sound foundation on which to build.

Many children leave both public and private schools with physical handicaps unrecognized, or their remedy neglected, or they are undernourished that they are unequal to a life of normal activity in any sphere.

They were the unfit, who were rejected for the army and have little to contribute to the life of the nation.

These defects may be noticed by the teacher and overlooked by the parent.

An Open Letter to the Editor

From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase; to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family. Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purpose and Purse."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter-million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest-selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President General Motors Corporation

They caught their breath and tried to take a new reef in their belts, and at the appointed hour were in their places. There was a good crowd and lots of interest, and at the close of the game the score stood 54 to 0 in favor of Grayling.

As We Grow Older

Proper Kidney Action Is More Than Ever Important.

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and aching, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and disordered common symptoms of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!
